

You are Invited. Summer Season 2010-Danielcode Super Traders' Tutorials

Los Angeles, Colorado Springs and Chicago

New syllabus for 2010

“Trading markets is the only business I have seen where otherwise successful people think they can succeed without training. Some of the best minds in the world are likely to be on the other side of your trade. Someone like me. If you want to be a pro trader, you need to know what I know.”

The Danielcode has been recognised as the most original financial markets' solution in a generation. In an industry not notable for innovation or original thinking, the Danielcode has proven to define all markets in all time frames.

During 2009, the Danielcode called the March lows in S&P to the day, and a few ticks; The March high and the December low in DX. The price of the high was nominated months in advance as was the date of the low, which was predicted on the DC “Time” chart, posted for all, on 27 July 2009. For the current pullback in US Equity markets, we were warning members about the probabilities of at least an interim top on 14 April 2010, when we posted, in public, the DC 59 week time cycle expiring on 04/22/10 and the price target for the S&P index of 1216.96. The closing high in $SPX was made on 04/23/10 at 1217.28. Prescient, timely and accurate. You can begin to learn the how and when of markets at this Danielcode Tutorial.

All of these major calls plus numerous minor and intermediate market turning points were made in writing, to a critical audience of members and the public, and were published in major financial publications, sometimes many weeks before the event. As the Danielcode takes an entirely novel and different approach to market analysis, it follows that it will be significantly different to all other analytical views at major market turning points.

John Needham is an Australian Attorney who writes extensively on financial markets, Gold, Equities, Forex, Commodities and trading strategies for Financial Sense, Traders Journal and Forex Journal. See the Danielcode website for recently published articles.

At the intensive 2.5 day trading tutorial, Master Trader John Needham, discoverer of the Danielcode will teach you:

- ✚ The Danielcode-what it is and where it comes from
- ✚ How to create and trade high probability market signals. T.03 and T.03 PLUS signals with an 85% win rate in S&P, Gold, Commodities and Forex
- ✚ Risk Management
- ✚ Short term trading in Equities and Forex
- ✚ Swing trading in Equities and Commodities
- ✚ Logical targets; short term; long term

- # Exit strategies; analysis and “qualification” of trades to determine likely trade targets
- # Danielcode “Time” charts-the concept of market “time”. How and why it differs from our normal concepts of time
- # Forex-Correlations direct and secondary
- # Commodities; qualified trades and D2 trade signals
- # Using the DC Long Term Trend Charts. Inflection points for investors. Entries and exits for swing traders
- # Optimizing your equity curve
- # Why most traders and investors lose money
